

Dr. Chris Anderson: anthropologist, boots-on-the-ground – He has more than 30 years' experience working with Indigenous and tribal peoples around the world, including the last 17 years with mining companies, most recently with Rio Tinto and Newmont Mining. This included work in Australia, West Africa, Peru, Indonesia, Uzbekistan, Mongolia, Canada and the US. He chaired the International Council on Mining & Metals working groups on Indigenous Peoples & Human Rights and the group on Artisanal and Small Scale Mining. Dr. Anderson is also a board member of the Open Contracting Partnership of the World Bank and is currently Principal of Yirri Global, a communities and social performance counsel group (See www.Yirri.Global).